Message from well-known motor sportsman Kevin Bartlett

My initial and continued close involvement with QMSC as its first President was because of my concern that some sectors of the community and government actively denigrate the sport that I have been heavily involved with for many decades.

In addition, I am still very active in historic and general motoring activities where there are many enthusiasts of anything with an engine; especially with individually constructed and / or modified street machines developed with such care and attention.

My experiences in the field of motorised sports can and should be used to both inform younger generations of the enormous amount of fun and achievement to be gained from motorised sporting activities and to focus the attention of those in government at any level of the legitimacy of motorised sports as an enjoyable past-time for Queenslanders

More than anything else, QMSC aims to use social networking to facilitate communication between people and organisations who are enthusiastic about recreational motorised sports activities.

QMSC has also been established to ensure the community in general and government in particular are better informed of the social, economic and environmental facts relating to recreational motorised sports activities.

ADVOCACY

It is increasingly difficult for those who support and / or participate in motorised sports activities to enjoy their chosen recreation – whether it be flying model aircraft or racing V8 supercars.

The reason is simple: motorised sports are easy targets because of the range of one-sided views in the community about people who enjoy any activity which might make a noise.

QMSC is dedicated to educating people that motorised sports are legitimate recreational activities and should be recognised as such by the community, politicians and bureaucrats.

For example: the former Queensland State government introduced a number of pieces of legislation in early 2012 regarding what was and what was not acceptable in a modification of a motor car.

A number of model aircraft clubs have had to relocate from where they have been accepted for years because of complaints by one or two people who have recently become neighbours.

Similar issues have been experienced by model power boat and other clubs where recreational motorised sports are located and undertaken.

The lack of a credible organisation with one voice representing the many is a major reason that hundreds of thousands of people who enjoy motorised sport recreational activities have been so poorly dealt with by all levels of governments .

Other sectors of our community who are impacted are the thousands of companies who employ people and who support and are supported by motorised recreational activities.
